Code: QWmNjEzmYtMWNhN2JhZmE0MjcwOGY0YzU3MmI3M2U4NzgwNGU5MmQ4.mp3Â .A German citizen has been arrested after he was found smuggling birds into Israel, Palestinian officials have said. The unnamed Palestinian was caught on Monday while attempting to smuggle 18 parakeets from the Gaza Strip to the West Bank, the officials said. Hanan Ashrawi, a member of the Palestine Liberation Organization, said the man was in good health. "It's not even clear whether he was granted access to the parakeets for the last three weeks, so he was making arrangements and making sure they were released in Jerusalem, and so the Israelis only found out about the operation," she told Al Jazeera. She said the man admitted to trying to smuggle in some 400 parakeets. "It's impossible to say how many more people might have been involved with him," she added. Turkey and Israel have a long history of disputes over the territory of the Palestinian territories, which Israel seized from Jordan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war. Israel has accused Turkey of allowing activists from the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine to use its territory to launch attacks from Gaza into Israel. Turkey has said it does not allow the group on its soil and that it has evidence that there is a link between the group and the Palestinians. In 2009, a Turkish activist and university student was sentenced to two years in prison and a fine after being caught trying to smuggle weapons from Syria to Palestine. Al Jazeera's Harry Fawcett said the Israel without any trouble," he said. "It's starting to show that human smugglers are just part of a strategy to get into Israel, even into occupied
